

1.

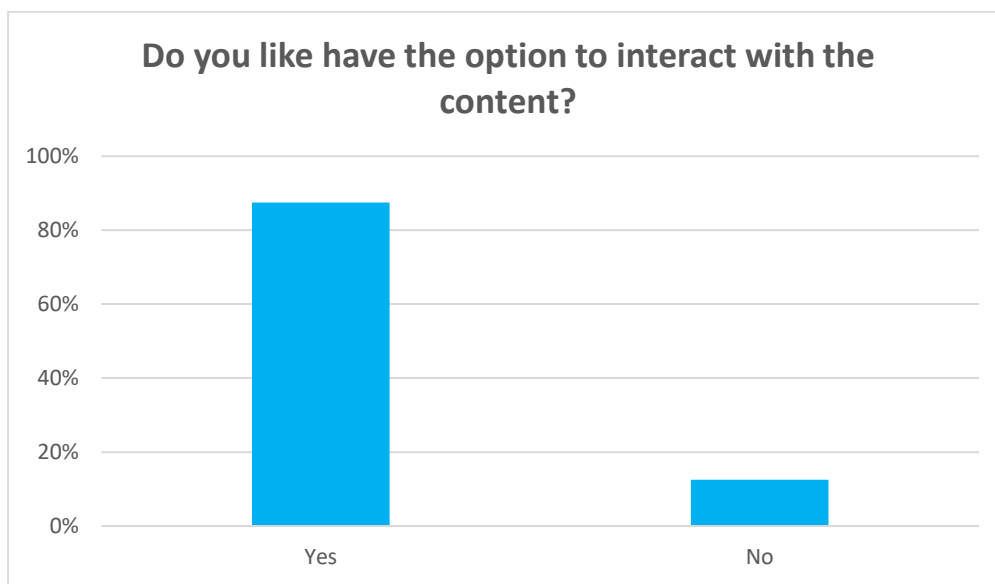

2.

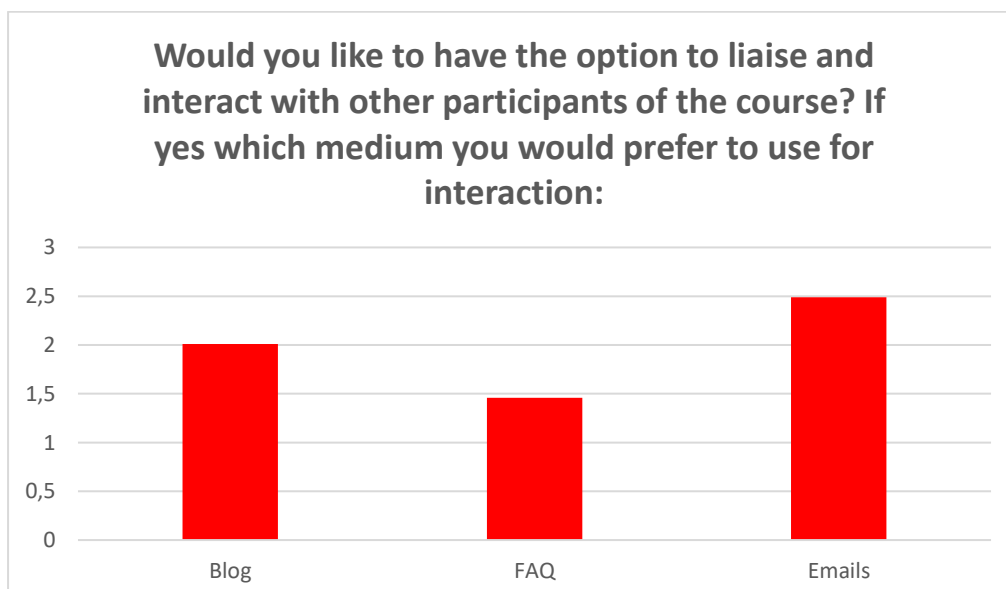

3.

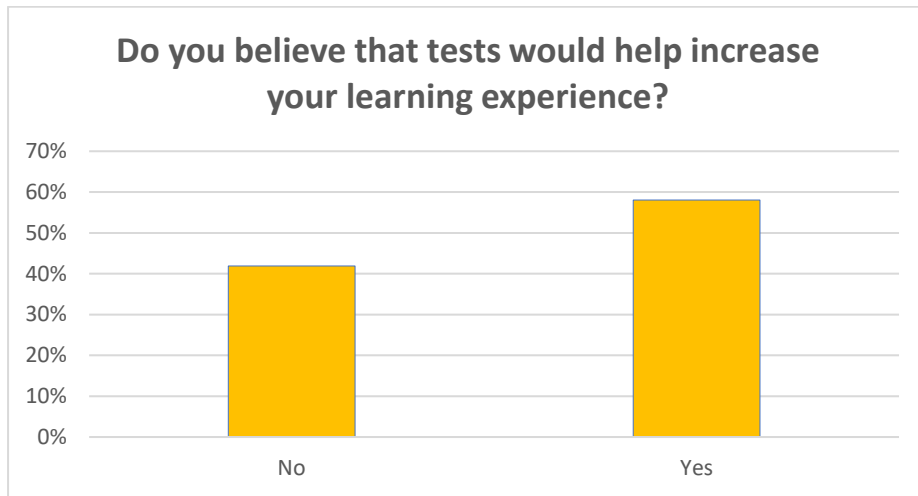

4.

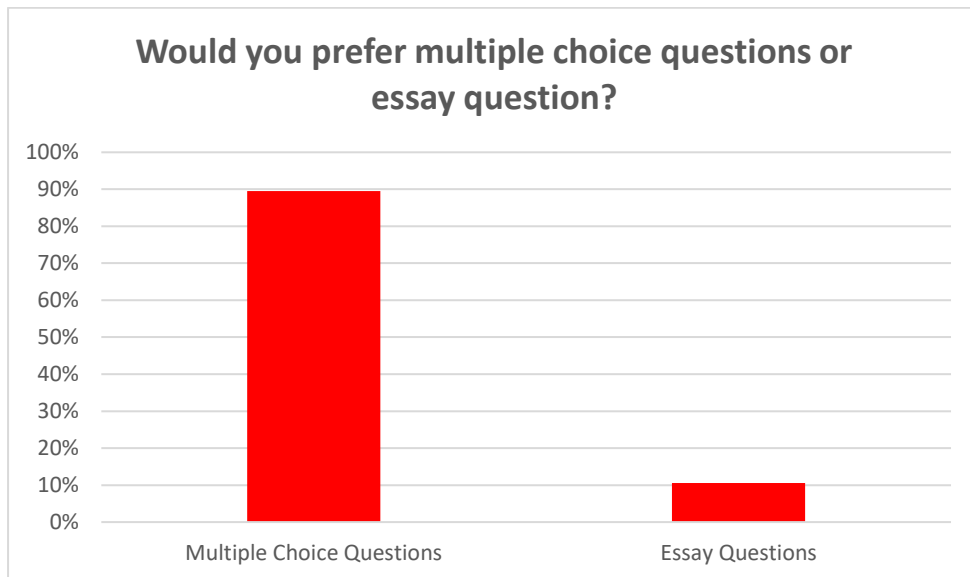

5.

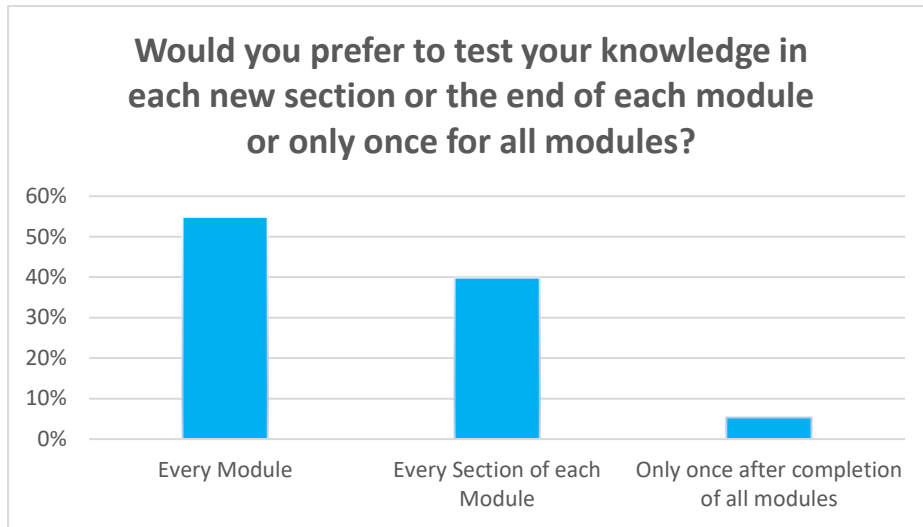

6.

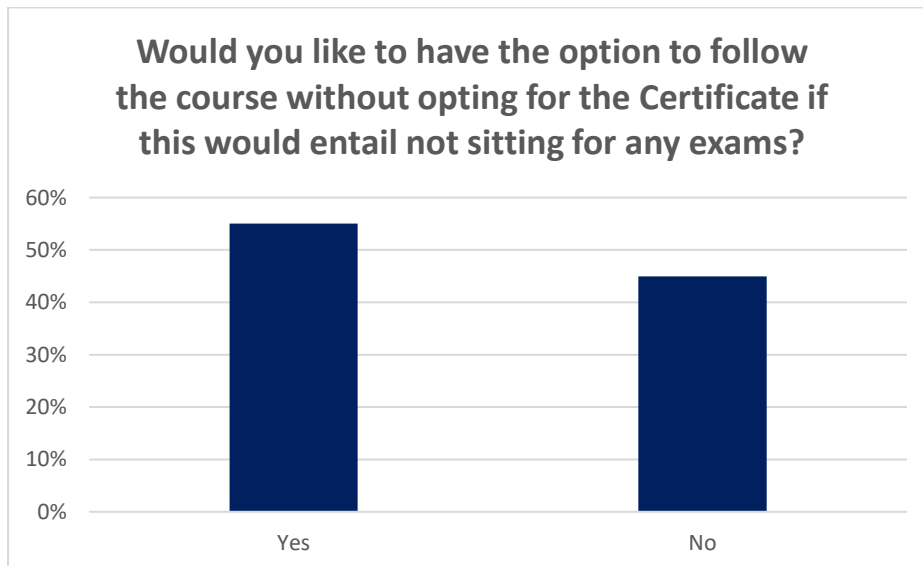

7.

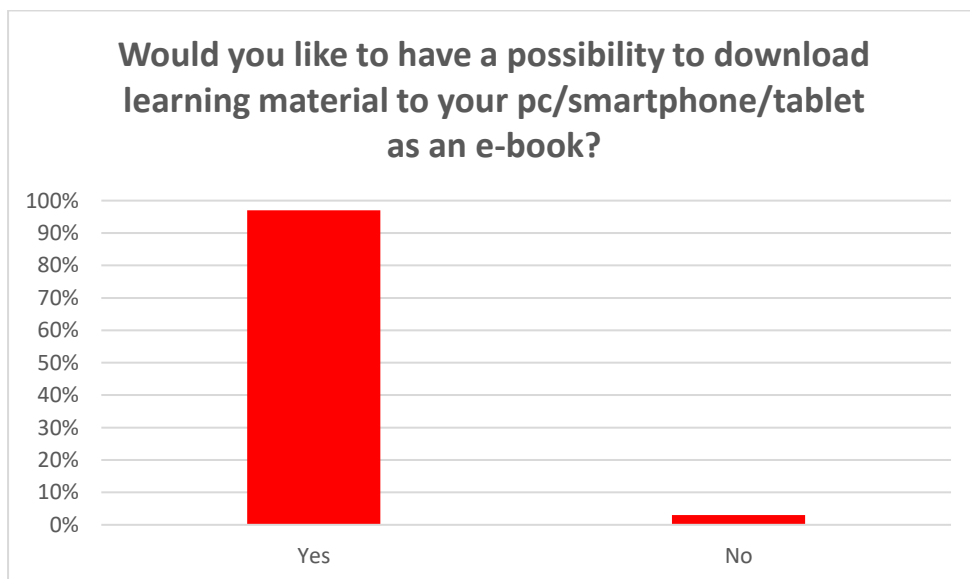

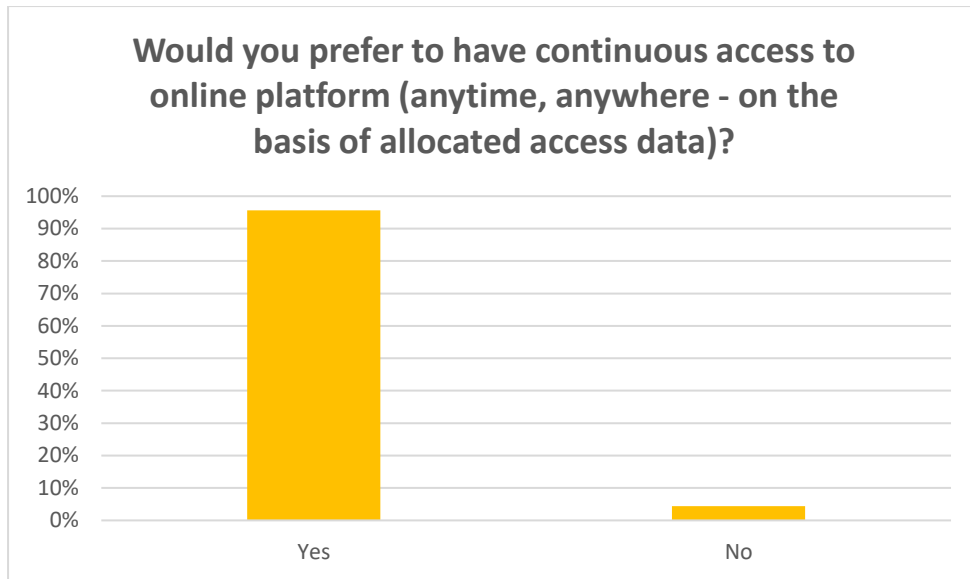

8.

9.

10.

Conclusions:

Following the analysis of the results of the survey we note the following:

1. In the survey, they participated 116 participants out of which the large majority did not have experience with an online platform although they had some experience with legal education.
2. We questioned them about how they would prefer to see the learning material and from their responses we note that:

- a. In relation to the use of an eBook the large majority of the participants have not used any e-book before, however, from the participants that have used any e-book before, most of them have found it easy to use and useful.
- b. The participants noted that the material must be full of examples, scenarios and it is very important that we use plain and everyday language to demonstrate legal practices.
- c. The clear majority of the participants wanted to be able to interact with the content of the learning material, while they would also like to be able to participate and interact with other participant of the programme with email.
- d. Participants want to test their knowledge via tests where multiple choice questions would be available, while only a very small percentage of the participants is willing to take essay question tests.
- e. In relation to the frequency of the tests participants want to be tested at the end of each module, while a significant percentage would also like to be tested at the end of every section of each module.
- f. Participants in almost their entirety want to be able to access the online platform any time and from any place and they want to be able to download the learning material in all forms of mobile devices.
- g. Last but not least, the participants requested for the option to be able to take the course without sitting on any exam despite the fact that this would lead to them not being eligible for a certificate of knowledge/completion.